Accountants buck the trend

Grant Rounding

Davis Burton Sellek Chartered Accountants has welcomed two new members of staff due to an increased demand for services. The firm says it has seen a flow of local residents and businesses seeking professional taxation planning and business advice from a more local practice offering excellent value for money.

Terry Friday has been appointed one of the firm's audit and accounts managers. He has experience in advising owner managed businesses and, being newly qualified, brings with him the most up to date technical knowledge. Terry's primary focus will be advising clients in the firm's increasing construction industry portfolio.

The private client side of the business has been strengthened by the recruitment of Grant Rounding, who will provide support to the firm's tax function advising businesses nationally and internationally.

Advice leads to successful sale

Roffe Swayne, one of Surrey's largest independent chartered accountants and business advisers, has advised the shareholders of Bridge Management Training Limited on the sale of its business to The Chartered Institute of Personnel Development.

Bridge specialise in leadership and organisational development and strategic transformation with clients including Tesco, BP, Asda, Cadbury, Pepsi Cola and HSBC.

The Roffe Swayne team negotiated the transaction on Bridge's behalf and provided corporate finance and tax advice.

Slam dunk for ramsac

Leading IT solutions consultancy ramsac has become a sponsor of Heat Basketball Club, which won the British Basketball League (BBL) in 2007 and were runners up in 2008. It will also provide ongoing IT support for the club at its Guildford headquarters.

Paul Mew, Technical Director at ramsac, said: "We are very proud to be sponsoring the Heat, a team which is really putting Surrey on the sporting map. The team relies heavily on its website and emails to co-ordinate activities, especially during the hectic BBL season."

Alan McClafferty, Managing Director of the Heat said: "The team completely relies on support from sponsors, such as ramsac, and fans to help us reach the top of the league and promote basketball."

Honour for trailblazer

An international award for trailblazers has been presented to Dave Birch, pictured, co founder and Director of Guildford based Consult Hype-ri- on, a leading firm of independent IT management consultants.

He received the ID Trailblazer Award at the eighth ID WORLD International Congress, the global summit on automatic identification. The award is presented to the individual who has made great strides in helping the market envisage what will happen over the coming years.
